stateboards.ie operates under the auspices of the Public Appointments Service and is committed to a policy of equal opportunity.

The Public Appointments Service (PAS), established under statute in 2004, provides an independent shared service in recruitment, assessment and selection to organisations across the Civil and Public Services. On 30 September 2014, the Government decided that the PAS should also be given responsibility for putting in place an open, accessible, rigorous and transparent system to support Ministers in making appointments to State Boards. Our dedicated website, www.stateboards.ie, is the channel through which the PAS advertises vacancies on State Boards. It is also the means through which accomplished, experienced and qualified people, including people who might not previously have been identified as available for appointment, can then apply to be considered for particular vacancies.

Membership of State Boards

High standards of corporate governance in all State Agencies, whether in the commercial or non-commercial sphere, are critical to ensuring a positive contribution to the State's overall social and economic development.

Members of State Boards are appointed to act on behalf of the citizen to oversee the running of the affairs of state bodies. State bodies must serve the interests of the taxpayer, pursue value for money in their endeavours (including managing risk appropriately), and act transparently as public entities. Members of State Boards, and the relevant management team, are accountable for the proper management of the organisation.

Board members should act on a fully informed basis, in good faith, with due diligence and care, and in the best interest of the State body, subject to the objectives set by Government. In that regard and in accordance with 13.2 of the Guidelines on Appointments to State Boards, "it is advisable that no member of a State Board should serve more than two full terms of appointment or should hold appointments to more than two State Boards."

The Code of Practice for the Governance of State Bodies 2016 (the Code) provides a framework for the application of best practice in corporate governance by both commercial and non-commercial State bodies.

In order to be an effective contributor on a State Board it is recommended that members should:

- bring independent and objective scrutiny to the oversight of the organisation;
- be prepared to be challenging when necessary while being supportive to the delivery of organisational strategy and objectives;
- be equipped to offer considered advice on the basis of sound judgement and experience;
- be prepared to make a time commitment to their work commensurate with their role.

1. Background

The Irish Blood Transfusion Service is the national organisation responsible for collecting, processing, testing and distributing blood and blood products in Ireland. It is a critical part of modern health care and provides blood, blood components and blood products for patients. It has an increasingly important role in the production of stem cells, and processing of other biological materials for clinical use. It is funded through the charging of hospitals for its products and services at a price agreed with the Department of Health.

The primary decision making body is the Executive Management Team, which has a devolved budgetary system. The organisation of work is carried out through a number of functions organised on a national basis, i.e. Operations, Medical, Quality and Compliance, Human Resources and Finance.

The headquarters is located on the grounds of St James's Hospital. in Dublin which is the main testing and processing centre. There is also a crossmatch laboratory in Cork and collection teams in Dublin, Cork, Carlow, Limerick, Ardee and Tuam with fixed donation clinics in Dublin and Cork.

The IBTS operates within a highly regulated environment. The conditions applying are similar to those that operate in the bio-pharmaceutical industry. A safe and secure transfusion service is assured by close collaboration between the IBTS and clinicians in managing the aspects of the transfusion process for which they are responsible. Increasingly the IBTS is developing new roles in supporting and delivering cellular therapies, and it is expected that these will form a large part of their activity in the future.

2. Functions of the Board

As a Non-Commercial State agency, governance arrangements for the IBTS are set out in the revised Code of Practice for the Governance of State Agencies. The responsibility for governance of the IBTS falls also on the Board. There is a clear delineation of roles and responsibilities between the Board and the Executive.

To assist the Board in carrying out its functions there are a number of sub-committees which deal with specific aspects of the business of the organisation, namely, Medical Advisory Committee, Finance Committee, Audit, Risk and Compliance Committee, Performance and Development Committee and Research and Development Committee.

Members of the Board perform key roles in relation to the direction, leadership and corporate governance of the IBTS. Board members work with the Chair of the Board, the Chief Executive and the executive management team to ensure that the blood service is managed and developed in line with best international practice.

Having considered the general suitability criteria for membership of a State Board, you should consider carefully how your background and experience fits with the specific appointment criteria set out in the Person Specification section in this booklet.

This will help ensure that the Assessment Panel is as informed as possible as to the basis for your candidature and why you believe you are a person who could potentially be appointed to this State Board. Please only include information that is directly relevant to the particular role for which you are applying.

If you have any questions regarding the application process please email info@stateboards.ie.
