Expressions of Interest in Membership of the National Statistics Board

The Department of the Taoiseach is inviting expressions of interest from organisations and users of statistics to nominate individuals for membership of the National Statistics Board. In line with Section 18 of the Statistics Act 1993, the National Statistics Board shall consist of eight members, including three persons of proven ability and experience whom shall be nominated by such organisation or organisations as the Taoiseach/Minister of State considers to be representative of the users of official statistics and providers of information under the Act.

What organisations/bodies can be considered representative of users of statistics and providers of Information under the Act?

The Statistics Act 1993 does not identify specific organisations, and it provides that the Taoiseach/Minster of State shall consider if an organisation meets this criterion.

Many organisations use official statistics, and as such a wide range of organisations/bodies may be considered to fall within this category. This could include, for example:

- Civil society groups
- Academic institutions
- Business/trade union representative bodies
- Professional/technical groups
- Sectoral representatives
- Regional organisations
- Non-governmental organisations/charities.

Membership of State Boards

High standards of corporate governance in all State Agencies, whether in the commercial or non-commercial sphere, are critical to ensuring a positive contribution to the State's overall social and economic development.

Board members should act on a fully informed basis, in good faith, with due diligence and care, and in the best interest of the State body, subject to the objectives set by Government. In that regard and in accordance with 13.2 of the Guidelines on Appointments to State Boards, "it is advisable that no member of a State Board should serve more than two full terms of appointment or should hold appointments to more than two State Boards."

The Code of Practice for the Governance of State Bodies 2016 (the Code) provides a framework for the application of best practice in corporate governance by both commercial and non-commercial State bodies.

In order to be an effective contributor on a State Board it is recommended that members should:

- bring independent and objective scrutiny to the oversight of the organisation;
- be prepared to be challenging when necessary while being supportive to the delivery of organisational strategy and objectives;
- be equipped to offer considered advice on the basis of sound judgement and experience;
- be prepared to make a time commitment to their work commensurate with their role.

1. Background

The National Statistics Board (NSB) was set up as a non-statutory body in 1986 and established on a statutory basis in November 1994 under the Statistics Act 1993. Section 8 of the Statistics Act 1993 provides the legislative basis for the Board. The role of the Board defined by Section 19 of the Statistics Act is to guide, with the agreement of the Taoiseach, the strategic direction of the Central Statistics Office.

In the 20 years since the Board was first established the role of the Board has evolved considerably. Previously, the Board primarily advised the CSO on the strategic direction and priority statistical outputs for the CSO. However, in recent strategies and papers the Board has highlighted the importance of data held across the wider public system, and its potential for both administrative and statistical purposes. The Board has developed the concept of an Irish Statistical System (ISS) involving the use of data from across the entire public sector to produce better official statistics. To give effect to this, it has promoted the idea of a National Data Infrastructure (NDI) with shared data management structures, standards and identifiers across the public sector

The Board's current strategy is entitled NSB Strategic Priorities for Official Statistics 2015-2020 'A World Class Statistical System for Ireland' and can be found here. In this document the Board sets out an ambition for the Irish Statistical System to become an example of best international statistical practice in the production and dissemination of official statistics.

2. Functions of the Board

It is the duty and responsibility of the board member to contribute to the work of the Board and to contribute to the development of priorities for official statistics in Ireland.

The role of the NSB is to guide the strategic direction of the CSO, with the agreement of the Taoiseach, and in particular, includes:

- establishing priorities for the compilation and development of official statistics;
- assessing the resources of staff, equipment and finance which should be made available for the compilation of statistics; and

- arbitrating, subject to the final decision of the Taoiseach, on any conflicts which may arise between the Office and other public authorities relating to the extraction of statistics from records or to the co-ordination of statistical activities.

In line with the provisions of Section 18 of the Statistics Act 1993 and the guidelines on appointments to state boards:

- one position on the board will be filled by re-appointment (Chair);
- one further appointment will be made by the Taoiseach/Minister of State following a process undertaken by the Public Appointments Service (see 'Available Appointments' section on www.stateboards.ie);
- three appointments to the board will be made on the basis of nominations by organisations considered to be representative of the users of official statistics and providers of information under the Act (expressions of interest sought in this booklet).
